

THE TENNESSEAN

Biotech company opens Brentwood office

By Getahn Ward • The Tennessean • June 22, 2010

Advanced BioHealing Inc., a Westport, Conn.,-based specialty biotech company, has opened an office in Brentwood as part of an expansion of its research and development efforts.

The company has leased 5,500 square feet of office space in the Overlook Building with plans also to relocate a lab there from temporary space at the Cumberland Emerging Technologies Life Sciences Center in Nashville.

Advanced BioHealing, which focuses on regenerative medicine, expects to have about 10 Nashville area employees by year-end.

Its research efforts, which includes identifying new product opportunities for its lead product the skin substitute Dermagraft, is led by Charles E. Hart, the former chief scientific officer for BioMimetic Therapeutics.